NASA, Aliens and the Vatican....and Musk and Mars!

Two interesting news reports. NASA asks the Vatican to help them with aliens. Wall Street Journal says the Vatican is losing Latin America to the Pentecostals. And then there is Elon Musk and Mars. Let connect some dots.

There is a major problem developing in the world for the powers that be.

In all nations, cultures, ethnicities, races...there is a new kind of world citizen that is forming bonds of relationship to one another across all lines and barriers around the world. They share values, they share community, they share ideals. They have a higher loyalty than to nationality or race or politics. They are the world evangelical charismatic movement.

They are now causing major problems for those who have international agendas. Because they are increasingly difficult to control or manipulate. They have their own transnational agenda. The Kingdom of God.

They are now beginning to affect international political power. They are turning up by the millions in voter booths. They are affecting financial powers. They are threatening major religious powers like the Vatican empire. In China where the government is trying to establish a new religious, ethical movement based on Confucius teachings the literally hundreds of millions of charismatic Christians are not buying into it. In Latin America they are now a dominant political voting block as they are in America. In Iran and other Islamic nations the secret underground church is exploding as ordinary families rebel against militant violent Jihad. All across Africa they are the dominant population group making colonial boundaries soon obsolete.

The powers of the world systems agree, something needs to stop the threat that this whole world religious movement represents. Persecution wont work anymore. They are too numerous and they dont buckle under, they thrive.

They not only represent a threat to powers that be on earth....they represent a mortal threat to principalities and powers in the heavens around the earth. And therefore all threatened parties both on earth and in heaven need to form alliances against his common foe.

What needs to be done is that the very strictly held faith in the divinity of Jesus Christ and the authority of the Bible must be destroyed. To this will require a deception of such magnitude that will test the faith of even the very elect of God.

So here is my radical idea. I present to you two recent newspaper reports that I want to connect. The one is a report this last week from Wall Street Journal outlining the huge problem that the Catholic church is facing in Latin America. They are losing the strongest base of Catholics in the world. Why? Pentecostals.

The second article is from the UK's Daily Mail. NASA is seeking help from the church (mainly Catholic) to prepare the world Christian community to the reality of aliens. UFO's. And the soon unveiling of the aliens. Meeting with them and presenting them to the world.

Here is my speculation: How do you destroy the faith of hundreds of millions of fervent Bible believing Christians? Simple but complicated....the space gods are here. They have returned. Now we can clear up all the speculation about who created mankind. We can explain religious movements. We can explain why the Bible is a book about ancient myths. Now to be honest this is not actually the "second coming" of the aliens. They have been here for ages and they have been deceiving for ages...all the way from Eden to the Annunaki of Sumeria, the dragon gods of China, the Vimani of India and on and on. But they are ready now for one great finale to a world longing for Superman and the X-men to rescue mankind and save the planet.

Read the two articles and then I will make some analysis and comment.

First the some extracts from the Daily Mail article then extracts from the Wall Street Journal article.

NASA 'looks to the heavens' for help: Agency enlisted 24 theologians to assess how the world would react to the discovery of alien life on distant planets and how it might change our perception of gods and creation

- NASA enlisted 24 theologians to take part in its program the Center for Theological Inquiry (CTI) at Princeton University
- The group assessed how humans will react if alien life is found on other planets and how the discovery will impact our ideas of gods and creation
- Dr Andrew Davison, a priest and theologian at the University of Cambridge with a doctorate in biochemistry from Oxford, is one of the theologians
- Davison believes we are getting closer to finding life on other planets

The Rev Dr Andrew Davison, a priest and theologian at the University of Cambridge with a doctorate in biochemistry from Oxford, was among 24 theologians who participated in Societal Implications of Astrobiology from 2016 to 2017, The Times reports.

Duilia de Mello, an astronomer and physics professor at Catholic University, said she has several seminarians in her classes who often bring up theoretical questions about intelligent life in the universe.

'If we are the products of creation, why couldn't we have life evolving in other planets as well? There's nothing that says otherwise,' de Mello told The Washington Post in August.

In 2008, the Vatican's chief astronomer says there is no conflict between believing in God and in the possibility of 'extraterrestrial brothers' perhaps more evolved than humans.

'In my opinion this possibility (of life on other planets) exists,' said Rev. Jose Gabriel Funes, a 45-year-old Jesuit priest who is head of the Vatican Observatory and a scientific adviser to Pope Benedict.

'How can we exclude that life has developed elsewhere,' he told the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano in an interview in its Tuesday-Wednesday edition, explaining that the large number of galaxies with their own planets made this possible.

The next article for the Wall Street Journal which normally does economic reporting but obviously sees a seismic shift happening in the world geo-political power line-up: The power of the Vatican is rapidly crumbling in its traditional strongholds.

Why the Catholic Church Is Losing Latin America

Conservative Pentecostals have made huge inroads in Latin America during the reign of the region's first pope, with Catholicism projected to become a minority in Brazil as soon as this year.

The most successful by far of these new faiths was Pentecostalism. Between 1970 and 2020, the number of Pentecostals in Brazil grew to 46.7 million from 6.8 million, according to the World Christian Database. In Guatemala, they grew more than 10-fold, to 2.9 million from fewer than 196,000.

Pentecostalism's loose organizational structure has helped it make inroads into Latin America's poorest neighborhoods, where churches offer material as well as spiritual help. Lay-led churches with flocks as small as a few dozen families organize donations of rice and beans for hungry families, fund soccer clubs for young boys to lure them away from drug gangs and organize private healthcare as an alternative to Brazil's failing public hospitals.

According to the 2014 Pew survey, the most popular reason given by former Catholics in Latin America for embracing some form of Protestantism was to have a more personal connection with God, cited by 81% of respondents. Nearly six in 10 said they left Catholicism because they found “a church that helps members more.”

Since the 1970s, Charismatic Catholicism has been a way to keep many Catholics attracted to Pentecostalism inside the ranks, with faith healing and speaking in tongues, combined with distinctively Catholic features including devotion to the Virgin Mary. In 2020, 22.8% of Catholics in Latin America were charismatics, according to the World Christian Database, maintained by Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary in Massachusetts.

The declining influence of Catholicism in Latin America has far-reaching social and political consequences. In countries such as Brazil, conversions to Pentecostal Christianity have boosted socially conservative views from the favelas to the halls of Congress, helping to propel right-wing President Jair Bolsonaro to power in 2018.

While President Bolsonaro still identifies as Catholic, he got himself baptized by a Pentecostal pastor in the River Jordan in 2016 in the lead-up to his presidential campaign. Pentecostals and evangelicals are prominently represented in his cabinet and make up a third of Brazil’s congress. His wife attends an evangelical church.

My comments....

Pope Francis has huge problems in the Catholic church. He desperately wants to change basic Catholic doctrines. That is because the Jesuits are now in charge of the power centres of the Vatican. Most of its priests are homosexual and he wants to stop the anti-gay doctrines. Not only are his priests gay but they are also politically and socially active and have strong views on socialism, economics and social change. They cannot hope to compete with Pentecostals on the Bible preaching front in the streets and among the poor. As the saying goes "The Catholic church went to the poor but the poor went to the Pentecostals". He needs to disconnect the whole church from its doctrinal base and recreate it as a social/political liberating force. Liberation theology. He needs Jesus as a model of humanism, not Jesus as God.

So for the Vatican... yes NASA bring on the alien disclosure revelation. We will work with you. In fact we have fascinating ancient documents in our secret Vatican archives which we can finally reveal. We will welcome our space brothers as enlightened beings who can teach us so much. Who can help us evolve from narrow minded fundamentalist Christianity to a brotherhood of man part of the great cosmic circle of life.

And then there is Mars.....that is really going to double down on the coming deception. Let me explain.

The history of church infiltration by humanism started with the inclusion of Greek philosophy into church doctrine by the likes of Aquinas with Socrates. But the really bad deceptions were the occult incursions into the church from the neo-Platonists and the ancient documents coming out of Constantinople at its downfall. Scholars were now emboldened to look for "original truth" not just out of Jerusalem or Athens but to look into the ancient past of Egypt as the fount of original spiritual wisdom.

And that brought them under the spell of the real ancient gods of Egypt and Sumer. The relevance of this today? For the last 50 years the connection now in all occult circles is to take "original wisdom" back beyond Egypt and Sumer to.....Mars. The space gods of Mars. The origin of mankind....a hybrid species of Neanderthal and god genes.

Elon Musk and SpaceX is on a mad dash to get to Mars for a human landing before 2028. NASA is helping them with big major funding and contracts. To speed things up there will soon be announcements of "ancient ruins and artefacts seen on Mars" which will propel the race to meet or discover our Martian origins.

For the powers of the world the now openly acknowledged disclosure that UFO's are real, the aliens are here.....is a solution to destroy the faith of the evangelical Christians. Watch how the media start playing this up. Look for the interviews of respected academic theologians. Look for official Vatican approval.

Don't be surprised and don't be fooled. Jesus warned of deception so strong geared to deceive even the very elect of God. I expect among the non-discipled, the great mass who are in the movement for what Jesus can do for my career, the seekers of wealth and prosperity, among those I expect what the Bible describes as a great "falling away".

But for the warriors of the Kingdom these are the great exciting times of the shifting of the ages. The demonic powers of the air are being cast down to the earth as Revelation prophesied they would be and we will be waiting for them to bind them and cast them in the lake of fire for destruction.

Jesus has given us all power in heaven and on earth and told us "if I cast demons then know that the Kingdom has come." That time has arrived.
